THE DEBATING SOCIETY.

Discussion of the Jury System—An Essay for the Next Meeting.

Other engagements kept several leading members of the Debating Society away from the meeting Thursday evening, but their absence was largely made up for by the attendance of a goodly number of visitors. That "the jury system has outgrown its usefulness and may safely be abolished," was maintained by Messrs. D. Logan, W. Hill and C. Livingston, and opposed by Messrs. P. L. Barrington and A. Vogel. The debate was not closed until 10 o'clock. For the affirmative it was argued that changes produced by differing judicial methods in various countries, altered conditions in the structure of civilized bodies politic in modern as compared with olden times, together with the increasing exemptions from jury service, had produced such a deterioration in the system that it ought to be either abolished or radically remodelled. It was cited as a fact that some of the highest authorities on the subject in England had come to the conclusion that juries might with advantage to the cause of justice be dispensed with in the trial of civil cases.

The advocates of retention of the system held that it was the "palladium" of the rights of the subject—his best protection in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. A side issue battled over vigorously was the extent to which juries dealt with both the facts and the law. The affirmative side held that the jury were actually restricted in passing upon the facts, while they could not help adjudicating upon the law at issue, notwithstanding the well-known doctrine that they only considered the facts and took all the law from the judge. This position was strenuously attacked by the negative party to the discussion. At next meeting Mr. Barrington will furnish matter for discussion in a paper upon some subject of his own choosing.

Monthly Meeting—Reports of the Work—Temperance in Barracks—Election of Officers.

Mr. P. C. Jones, chairman of the temperance committee, besides a general account of the Blue Ribbon League work, reported the interesting fact that Mr. J. K. Kaunamano, of Hanalei, had on the previous Sunday organized a branch of the Blue Ribbon League in the barracks of His Majesty's Household Guards, with a roll of 33 members. Hon. A. F. Judd reported from the work among Hawaiians of the encouraging results at Queen Emma Hall. The Association had just received $50 from the Blue Ribbon League entertainment at that hall, conducted by Miss Nellie Judd and Miss Mary Green. They had also received a donation of $25 from the Japanese Y. M. C. A. at Queen Emma Hall. A vote of thanks was passed for this generous gift of the Japanese Christians, as well as to the Blue Ribbon League for the $50 just noted. It was resolved to continue the work at Queen Emma Hall for another year.

Six new members were elected. The sum of $10 was collected from these persons. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Hon. Henry Waterhouse. Vice-President—Mr. T. Rain Walker. Recording Secretary—Mr. William T. Forbes. Treasurer—Mr. T. S. Southwick. Directors—Messrs. W. A. Bowen and George P. Castle.

Mr. S. D. Fuller continues as General Secretary under appointment of the executive. The Association adjourned to meet one week hence, when the annual reports and address of the President will be heard, and the newly-elected officers be installed.

THE PEOPLE'S SAVINGS.

Great Increase of Deposits the Past Quarter—The Most Sanguine Predictions Fulfilled.

The business of the Postal Savings Bank has continued to increase during the past quarter as rapidly as at any time since its establishment in 1886. The Postmaster-General has furnished the following statistics showing what has been done during the past three months, and the condition of the Bank on March 31st.

Balance due depositors Dec. 31, '88	$477,375 85
Total deposits in Jan. 1872-1888	$72,721 03
Feb. 1887	76,875 00
Mar. 1891	71,371 04—229,971 92
	$698,447 77
Tl withdrawn in Jan. 1885-330 98
Feb. 1840 32
Mar. 1840 68—84,555 18

Balance due depositors Mar. 31, '89
 $613,892 59 |

The number of pass books out on the 31st of December was 1,860, and the number out on the 31st of March was 2,128, making an increase during the quarter of 268. This indicates that about one in every forty of the entire population has a pass book, and the average amount standing to the credit of each depositor is $288. This, it must be admitted, is very creditable to the Hawaiian people.

PRAYING FOR RAIN.

Chinese Liberality in Propitiating Their Deities.

A conspicuous object to all coming up King street on Friday was a flame-colored poster, extending about twenty feet laterally on the wall of the Chinese Benevolent Society's building. Inquiries of Chinese gentlemen elicited the information that the poster contained full accounts of receipts and expenditures in connection with the recent prayers for rain at the joss-house. The contributions to the praying fund had been over $2,000, of which $1,000 and odd had been expended in the propitiatory ceremonies. The balance is to be devoted to the charitable objects of the society.

FATHER DAMIEN DEAD.

The Famous Leper Priest Goes to His Long Home—Sketch of His Life by Charles Warren Stoddard.

By the steamer Mokoli that arrived from Molokai on Saturday morning news was brought of the death of Father Joseph Devenster Damien, the Roman Catholic priest who had gained worldwide fame for devoting his life to ministrations among the inmates of the Molokai leper settlement. He died on Monday morning, April 15th. Father Damien had been sixteen years in that living tomb, and three years ago contracted the terrible disease that has ended his days. Upon his death he was dressed in priest's vestments and the following day the body was laid in a coffin that the Sisters had lined with white silk. A requiem high mass was said on Tuesday by Father Wendelin, who preached to a crowded church from the words, "The Good Shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep." The body was borne to the tomb by white lepers. There had been a vault prepared under the lauhala tree beneath which the departed Father was wont to sleep when he first arrived at the settlement. This last resting place had been chosen by himself. Next week a requiem mass for the repose of Father Damien's soul will be celebrated at the Roman Catholic Cathedral.

The following sketch of Father Damien's early life and instalment at the settlement was written by Charles Warren Stoddard after getting the story from the priest's own lips at Kalawao. It is reprinted from a little work, "The Lepers of Molokai," by that well-known author, and the copy used for this purpose was mailed by the late priest to the local editor of this paper only a few weeks ago, for use in writing a sketch of Father Damien and the Leper Settlement to the order of an Australian newspaper editor. An autograph letter from the then dying Father, pathetic in its statement of the writer's weak condition, was retained to the gentleman soliciting the article. Mr. Stoddard, who wrote the book four or five years ago, said:

"Born in Louvain, Belgium, January 3, 1840; when he was but four and twenty, his brother, who had just entered the priesthood, was ordered to embark for Honolulu, but at the moment fell sick with typhoid fever. Young Damien, who was a theological student at the University, having received minor orders, and belonging to the same order as the Society of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary (commonly called Society of Pious), at once wrote to his superior, and begged that he might be sent upon the mission in his brother's stead. In one week he was on his way to that far country. He was ordained upon his arrival in Honolulu, and for a few years led the life of toil and privation which invariably falls to the lot of the Catholic missionary."

"In 1873 he, in common with others of the clergy, was invited to be present at the dedication of a beautiful chapel just completed by Father Leonard at Wailuku, on the island of Maui. There he met the Bishop, who expressed regret that he was still unable to send a priest to Molokai; for the demand was far in excess of the supply. Father Damien at once said: 'My Lord, I hear that a small vessel will next week take cattle from Kalaupapa to Kalaupapa; if you will permit me I will go there to help the lepers make their better duties.'"

"His request was granted, and, in company with the Bishop and the French Consul, he landed at the settlement, where he found a colony of eight hundred lepers, of whom between four and five hundred were Catholics. A public meeting was immediately called, at which the Bishop and the Consul presided. His Grace arose to address the singular gathering, and said: 'Since you have written me so often that you have no priest, I leave you one for a little time; and, imparting the benediction, he returned immediately to the vessel, which was to sail that very hour. Father Damien added: 'As there is much to be done here, by your leave I will not even accompany you to the shore.' Thus the good work was at once begun. It was high time; the lepers were dying at the rate of eight to twelve per week. The priest had not time to build himself a hut—he had not even the material with which to build it—and for a season he slept in the open air, under a tree, exposed to the wind and the rain."

"Soon after he received a letter of congratulation from the white residents of Honolulu—chiefly Protestants—together with some lumber, and a purse of $120; then he put up his little house, and began to feel at home. After remaining some weeks at Kalawao, he was obliged to go to Honolulu, there being no more convenient priest to whom he could make his confession."

The sketch proceeds to relate the cool reception Father Damien received from the President of the Board of Health, who in the course of an interview said the priest might go to Molokai, but, if so, he must remain there for good. It was in vain that the Father urged the necessity of one priest having to make confession at stated intervals to another. "An eminent physician," one of the Board, pleaded the cause of the priest and, aided by the French Consul, a special permit was obtained on which Father Damien returned to Kalawao.

"Shortly after his return he received official notice that he must remain where he was; and that on any attempt to leave the island, or even to visit other portions of Molokai, he would be immediately put under arrest. The notice was sharply worded. This roused the indignation of the priest, and he notified the Board of Health that if they would attend strictly to their duties, he would attend to his. When it became necessary for him to visit a priest on a neighboring island, he did so, asking no odds of any man; he also visited his scattered flock on the circuit of Molokai, attending faithfully and fearlessly to the wants of his people."

"Often on these rounds he was the welcome guest of a gentleman, the son of a Protestant missionary; and on one occasion the host said to him, playfully: 'I suppose you are aware that I have orders to place you under immediate arrest if you presume to leave your leper settlement.' And this was the sheriff of Molokai."

"Six months later a permit came, granting Father Damien leave to come and go as he pleased; but in eleven years how seldom has he cared to use it."
